

Stories with to do vs to make

Yesterday Salmy made a beautiful speech: he made a promise not to make noises anymore. The neighbours were very angry with him, because he made noises while he was doing the washing up and his housework. Since that day he did his best not to make mess. So, he made an effort to make a plan: making a living doing favours to the elderly. Up to now Salmy has made a lot of money in this way. Written by Luca Melzi & Nicholas Beltramini

John made money, because he did business making war. One day he found a man, who made him an offer for a travel to Kazakhstan. After that, he made a reservation for a military plane and made plans to make a war start. When he arrived, he made fortune selling kebab because he found out that he could do much more harm and money putting inside them radioactive refuse, than bringing a war in a temporary pacific country... At the end he made so much money selling kebab that he kept a company of radioactive kebab. Written by Fabio Musitano & Tommaso De Martini

Once upon a time there was an old man, Trevor Phillips, living in a inhabited land in Massachusetts, who really wanted to make a journey. In fact, since he was young, he used to make a living for this aim. So he started doing the housework for other people. One day he made friendship with a young businessman, who convinced him to do business in Wall Street. After he made him an offer, he started making money. After that he made a fortune and now he can afford to hire someone to do the housework for him. Therefore, in this way, he had time to make plans for his journey. However he could realize his dreams, he suffered from ebola and he died. Written by Sofia Andrea & Piccolo Lorenzo

Marta wishes to make a journey, but she hasn't got money enough. For this reason she started to look for a job: to do the cleaning, to do the housework or to do the washing. One day Marta found a job in a restaurant: she did the cooking. She did her duty everyday and she did her best to be a good cook. After one year Marta made enough money for making a journey and she is in Toronto now. Written by Sangalli Giorgia & Bianou Nelly

Yesterday my mum made a cake in order to do me a favour. Then she did the housework while I was doing my Latin homework. She was doing the cleaning when she realized she had much money, so she went to the supermarket to do the shopping. When she came back, she made a phone call to my dad who was doing exercises. He had to make a choice: to answer the phone or to keep on doing exercises. He decided not to do his duty and continued to do exercises. Written by Sara Sarzi Sartori & Chiara Savini